TRESPHONE No. 12.

Hongkong, August 28rg. 1889.

In may surprise the shareholders of the Hongkong and Whampao Dock Company to leam that no dividend has been legally declased for the last half-year. The Chairman, directors, and shareholders present at the meeting held on Monday were apparently so much concerned with the question whether the policy of writing down was to be coutinged or not that the business of declaring the dividend was quite overlooked. The omission is not likely to be attended by any to-morrow serious consequences; the dividend is to be duly paid and no shareholder will be found to object, we think, on the ground of informality. What happened at the meeting was simply this. The adoption of the report and accounts was proposed and seconded in the usual manuer, and an amendment was then proposed and seconded to the effect that a sum of $100,000 which it was proposed to write off the value of the new dock should be carried to new account. The amendment was discussed at some length, and was finally will be seen by the following from the Melbourne world upon and carried. FOR SULAND ANOTHER & PITMAN. The hearing of this case was resumed. Mr. Pollock, instructed by Messrs. Caldwell and Wilkinson appeared for the plaintiffs, and

Cross-examination of Mr. Pitman by Mr. the value of the property as less than it Pollock continued—I was informed by the Fooreally is in order to pay a large dividend on chow Government that the 106 projectiles rejected were shot and not shells. I said yestera small capital does not seem judicious. The day that when I went in January, 18:6, to the market value of a stock is determined largely, Hip Tai Loong I saw 40 shells ready and 95 but not altogether, by its earning power; nearly ready. I charged the 441, which I paid the actual value of the property is really sion of the contract, to the plaintiffs. It was the chief item. A share representing $100 through my influence that the contract was exworth of property and neturning 8 per tended. I was behind time with the contract, but it was also for the benefit of the plaintiffs to cent, interest would naturally command a have it extended. His Lordship-You say the 106 projectiles higher price than one remesenting only were rejected because they were shot; not shells? Witness - I was informed so by the Government. But you examined them?-No, my lord. If therefore the Dock Company's property When you went to the Hip Tai Loong in Feis really worth two millions and a half bruary you saw 400 shells ready and 95 mearly ready?-Xes, my lord.

You looked at these ?-Yes, my lord. And they were all shells ?-Yes, my lord. Then I think we can assume that they were the 495 shells delivered. How could a portion of them become shot while being transferred to Foschow P-I was informed by the Government that 106 were shot. Do you mean that the plaintiffs, after you had examined the shells, substituted shot for them ?-I do not say that, my lord. -Might not those rejected have been other than those manufactured by the plaintiffs !-They might have been. Do you produce the account I asked for last night!-Yes my lord. You made out this account last night?-Yes, Company's property could not now be replac. my lord.

At the rates charged what does it amount to on the 694 shells ?--$241. Why then did you only charge them $75 as their proportion !- I thought that would be a fair price to charge them. This is not a copy of the account you sent in to them P-No. it is an estimate that I made become available for dividend. When good The figures are not the same as in the account half-years occurred, like the last one, it you sent them?-No, not exactly the same, What did you get from the Bank on these would be possible, instead of writing down values, to build up a fund for the shells? $5.10 per shell. You say you only charged the plaintiffs 37 for storage and insurance ?- Yes, my lord. And you paid $241 ?-Yes, my lord. Did you claim the balance from them afterwards P Yes, my lord, in my counterclaim.

Although what was done by you in selling those shells for them was done out of kindness

-Yes, my lord. I disposed of them out of kind ness to the plantiffs. Now is it not curious that in this account you from London, left Singaponen Monday for this bring the amount to be advanced to them after paying expenses to exactly $2,000?—That is an being up to sample.

But now you estimate it at that sum to a cent -I think your lordship will not see it is $2,000 exactly to a cent. I made this estimate to show from Liverpool, left Singapore on the afternoon you on what I based my account.

Yes, but I wanted to know what you based your account on then, not now. Did you not, now, find that the price of the shells amounted to $2,722.50 and then put down the expenses at $722.50 to present year, issued by the Statistical Departmake your advance of $2,000 correct P-I simply ment of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs. estimated the charges roughly for your lordship to see on what basis I had charged in The Agents (Messrs. Adamson Bell & Co.) the accounts. - I put the expenses at about $700: inform us that the C. P. steamer Batavia, from Vancouver, arrived at Yokohama yesterday in reality the expenses were more than that. Yes, and you put these figures down now as 8722.50 for the purpose of bringing right the he had admitted that in February, 1886 amount you advanced?-Yes, but I estimated at 400 shells were completed and ready for delivery, first the charges at $700. These charges are not the result of a calculation made at the time?-No: but at the time I

Co.'s steamer Changsha (which arrived in Hongkong on Sunday last) regulated 240 ounces of amount to about $700. You did not calculate at the time that they A telegram in the Port Barwin paper, dated would amount to 3722.50 ? You have not carried those figures in your head ever since ?-No, my Tenison-Woods is seriously ill, and very little

Now will you try and recollect whether this sum of $2,000 was not the sum you agreed to give them !- I did agree to advance them $2,000. Then you did montion the sum of $2,000 P-Yes, to Chan Yu Fai. He knew I was going to contract like this, for 1,300 shells amounting to advance $2,000 on the shells.

Then you did not tell him that you would give him a proportionate amount of what you got on all the shells P-I told him I would do what I could in Foochow, and that he should enjoy the Did you expect to get the whole 1,300 shells from the plaintiffs ?-Yes, my lord. Without advancing any money to them on account P-Yes. my lord. You would have paid for these shells if they had been delivered in time ?-Yes, my lord. But afterwards you were not able to do so ?--

Taking defendant's own evidence which would give a rate of manufacture of about 80 shells a month, which he submitted was a very reasonable rate. If these 400 shells were roughly calculated that the expenses would ready for delivery, and defendant had now given up his point of their not being up to sample, what reason on God's earth was there why he should not have said to the plaintiffs "Send me the 400 shells at once. I am in a hurry for them." Defendant admitted having been asked for money by the plaintiffs, and he submitted that the only delay there was was caused by defendant not being able to pay for these shells and take delivery. It was quite unreasonable to suppose in a large over $11,000, plaintiffs could carry out the contract without some agreement as to payment by instalment. Defendant had admitted that in his contract with the Chinese authorities these shells should have been delivered by February. 1885, and that he was behind with his contract. and he now tried to make out that plaintiffs were to blame for the delay. So little did the defendant want these shells that he allowed this contract to remain unfinished for over 16 months and they were not disposed of till the month of October, 1887, when, no doubt greatly to the disgust of the defendant, he could only obtain a price of $5.10 per shell. Then there was the statement as to the $2,000 being an advance and not a payment on account. His Lordship would remember how very vayue and ambiguous the defendant was in his statements with regard to this. He stated that the letter offering to take these shells over as agent was given to Chan Yu Pai before the advance was made. Chan Yu Fai on the other hand dealed this, and stated that he did not receive the letter until after the shells were deposited in the godown and the In fact there was nothing whatever to show that this was not, as plaintiffs claimed, a payment by defendant on account. Under all these circumstances he asked for judgment for plaintiffs on their claim and the counter-claim.

JAPANESE JOURNAL ON NESE COMPETITION.

The Japan Herald says :- The Seiron, reported to be Count Goto's organ, publishes a most unmistakable wail of fear and dismay at the respect of mixed residence being permitted the Chinese. The unrestricted immigration of Chinese into the country will ring the knell of the Japanese labouring classes. This is how our contemporary delivers (tself upon the question : "In all the talk and discussion upon Treaty Revision no one seems to think of or to heed China's position in the matter. All that we worry ourselves about refers to the European Powers. This is wrong. China merits attention in this question; and she merits it in this way. The day that a revised treaty is signed with Chica. and mixed residence is permitted her subjects this country, low mean Chinese will enter the land in great numbers-members of a race that is universally despised and tabooed. What will be the result of their advent among us in great numbers, free to go whither they please and to trade where they like? The result will be this. First of all small shops will be opened by them. And Europeans will do likewise, we fancy we hear our readers my. True, but the Europeans, when they do business, it is upon a large scale, and nowhere will their competition be felt by our small shopkeepers. But with the Chinese this will not be so. It is with our small merchants that they compete. A Chinaman does not care for honour, nor does he shrink from labour if money is to be got thereby. In these shops they will sell not only Chinese good; but

Japanese wares, and those Japanese wares will be retailed at a lower rate than our merchants will be able to sell them. Nor will our shopkeepers be the only ones to feel the result of their competition. Our labouring blasses will be influenced by it. It is well known that the Chinese are patient It is true that the Japanese labourer is content. with a little and can live on a little, but that is no criterion that the Chinese will not be a keen competitor with him in the labour market. A Chinaman sacrifices everything for money; including his honour and his liberty. A Japanese cannot do that. The matter therefore resolves panese and Chinese alone, the latter will get the better of us. . It is argued that when the country is opened foreign capital will flow in, and that the wages of the labouring classes will improve. It is very much a question whether foreign capital will come to us in any quantity. Chinese amongst us. THE MAYERICK POISONING CASE. LONDON, 5th August. In connection with the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for the murder of her husband, James Maybrick, by poisoning him, an analyst employed by the Home Office has certified that Maybrick's death was not caused by arsenic, as was supposed, but, was the result of gastro-enteritis. The prisoner stated that she purchased the fly papers which were found in the house to make a face-wash. On the night before his death her husband implored her to give him a certain powder, but she refused until he declared that it would do no harm when mixed with his food. She then placed some of the nowder in a tin of meat-inice. She went out, and when she returned her busband was asleep and had never tasted the contents of the tin. She was not aware that the powder mentioned contained arienic until after Maybrick's death.

LONDON, 7th August. At Liverpool yesterday, Mrs. Maybrick was sentenced to death for the murder of her husband. Much surprise was caused by her admission that she had committed adultery, but was innecent of murdering her husband. A reprieve will probably be granted. The fee received by Sir Charles Russell.
